COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The highway crew finished tarrring last Friday and three of the crew are on vacation this week. About 6.3 miles of road were sealed or penetrated and 3.0 miles were mulched. In addition to the seal and mulch work, the highway crew mixed 100 yards of cold patch and tarred 26 driveways. The above work took 52,000 gallons of tar and 1800 yards of sand.

The next job that the town will be involved in is the state aid reconstruction for 1963. If the state cannot start at this time, then the town will go ahead and start the town road improvement for this year.

The town borrowed another $40,000.00 tax anticipation loan this week making a total of $120,000.00 so far this year. That is a lot of money but the very low 2¼ percent interest rate keeps the borrowing cost down.

The assessors are working on the final parts of the assessing and should be through in the next couple of weeks. It will take about two weeks from the time the assessment is finished until the tax bills are sent out. Several people have asked what the tax rate will be this year. The rate cannot be determined until the assessing is finished and the total value of the town is figured.

LOCAL GEM SHOP PARTICIPATES IN COUNTY GEM ASSN. EXHIBIT

The Gem Shop, along with about twenty-five dealers from all over the country, participated in the Second Annual Show and Exhibit by the Oxford County Gem and Mineral Association at Rumford Center on Saturday and Sunday.

The show attracted dealers from as far away as Texas.

Specimens displayed by The Gem Shop, attracting much attention, were a fine Newry Watermelon Tourmaline, most of which are in the Harvard Museum, and a large blue Beryl crystal from Songo Pond, mined by Edward Wheeler and Charles Gorman.

Many local people attended the show both days.

BEERS-BARNES CIRCUS TO EXHIBIT HERE AUGUST 7

One of the finest tented circuses touring the eastern United States this season will make a one-day appearance August 7 at Bethel under Bethel Fire Department auspices, it was announced by Roderick McMillin, fire chief.

Under a mammoth big top, Beers-Barnes Circus will exhibit at Harold Carver's field on the south side of Rt. 2 in Skillingston, with one hour and half performances at 2 and 8 p. m.

The 1963 edition of the show, according to their advance agent, will bring a grand sparkling new program in mass entertainment. A gorgeous, colorful panorama of Spangleland is promised.

There will be performing elephants, trained seals, beautiful horses, prancing ponies, talented canines, thrilling aerialists, artistic wirewalkers, ridiculous clowns, and pretty girls.

Noted as the "Aristocrat of Spangleland," the Beers-Barnes Circus is one of the oldest circuses appearing under canvas and one of the few on the road which conduct no advance soliciting promotions of any kind to guarantee attendance. No "high pressure" telephone solicitors are used. The sponsors, however, will conduct their own localized advance sale of general admission tickets in order to earn a much higher percentage than that received at showgrounds, but this campaign will be handled exclusively by members of the sponsoring organization, Mr. McMillin said.

Mrs. Elwyn Storey of West Carry Pond Camps has been visiting her sister, Miss Kathryn Ramsell, for a few days.

PLANS PROGRESS FOR BAZAAR AUG. 3

Plans are progressing for Mollyockett Day which is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 3, on the Bethel Common.

Co-chairmen of this annual event are Mr. and Mrs. Ranald Stevens.

Charles Farrar, parade chairman, has announced that prizes will be awarded as follows: Floats, three trophies; Walkers in costume, two prizes; Walkers with doll carriages, carts, and bicycles, two prizes. Parents interested in assisting the children in the parade are asked to call Mr. Farrar.

Mrs. Mary Shine will be chairman of the pet show which will again this year offer much amusement for young and old.

Ronald Kendall is chairman of booth construction and clean-up. Richard Waldron will have greens available for use of the booth chairman, but they may use other decorations if they wish.

Booths planned at present are: candy, WSCS; soft drinks, Bethel Players; doughnuts and coffee, Bethel Evening Extension; food booths, Newry Mother's Club and Round Mountain Grange, and many others are expected.

Miss Alice Capen has again offered the use of her barn for the Art Exhibit which promises to be interesting to painters and non-painters. Special features and participants will be announced later. Arrangement and planning will be under the direction of Mrs. Bruce Bailey and Mrs. Betty Anderson.

Items are still needed to make the Auction a special highlight of the day. Anyone having articles which they would like to donate, should notify Ranald Stevens or Steve's Garage.

Other activities and announcements will be in next week's Citizen.

The most important part anyone can play for any such event as this, is co-operation. Mollyockett Day is sponsored by the Bethel Health and Service Council and all proceeds are for this cause. There are many ways in which each citizen can help make this annual affair a very successful occurrence. So, if you are called upon, be willing to help; if you are not called upon, be willing to volunteer.

Mrs. Doris Brown is a patient at the CMG Hospital, Lewiston.

HIGHWAY COMMITTEE WARNS OF HEAVY TRAFFIC SATURDAY

Torben K. Andersen, chairman of the Maine Highway Safety Committee, predicted Wednesday that Saturday's eclipse of the sun would create "the greatest movement of traffic in a three-hour period in the history of the state.

"The period from 6:00 to 9:00 p. m. on July 20 will be critical," according to Andersen, whose committee issued a fact sheet of tips to help cope with what he termed "the greatest highway safety problem we've ever had."

According to estimates he credited to the Department of Economic Development, 250,000 people may move into the belt of totality between July 17 and 20 with the peak expected immediately after the eclipse.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR...

To the Editor
The Bethel Citizen

Dear Sir:

The current campaign to raise funds for the erection of a children's wing of the Bethel Library offers an occasion to write a few words of well merited praise for the library services of Bethel. The ladies who are in charge are cordial, gracious and helpful. There is a genuine "library air" about the rooms, quiet, dignified and inviting. The shelves contain copies of the best in literature, both past and present.

However, no library can offer adequate service without public support. Some people look upon a community library as a luxury that is unworthy of public tax dollars. In this view they are gravely mistaken. The rapid pace at which history is unfolding, the multiplicity of events and subjects that affect each and every one of us plus the fact that knowledge of these is essential to enable one to function adequately and effectively in his community clearly spell out an abiding need for the public library.

Off-handedly I can mention a dozen subjects which vitally affect every citizen and about which he ought to be reasonably informed. There is no other place to seek and find such information than in the public library. For example, who among us can deny a need to know something about each of the following: 1) Nuclear testing and fall-out; 2) The Common Market; 3) Inflation; 4) Taxation; 5) Social Security and Unemployment Insurance; 6) Farm Surpluses and their effect on the economy; 7) Integration; 8) Disarmament; 9) Help to foreign countries; 10) Outer space; 11) Intercontinental communications (Telstar, etc.); 12) Employer-employee relations. There isn't a single one of these items that doesn't cost all of us money—lots of money. We can remain ignorant of them only at our peril Quite recently the members of the Common Market raised poultry tariffs on poultry imports from the United States. I dare say that several poultry farmers in Oxford County, Maine, were unfavorably affected by this event. Can they afford to be ignorant on the subject? Each of us can hardly accumulate the necessary literature to keep informed on any or all of these subjects. The community agency that can do it effectively for us is the library. I have listed the subjects above in the order in which they occurred to me and not in the order of their presumed significance. I can readily list twelve others that are equally important. The point is that a public library is a necessity because it can be made a focal point for the dissemination of information that is vital to the public.

In addition there is an obligation to those who read for pleasure and above all to children. A child who has acquired a love for books and who is a regular library patron is marked for useful and fruitful living in his community. There is no more heart-warming experience that the sight of a library full of eager children. Children clearly need a wing of their own in the library. Children's reading is different from adults' reading. Children should not be compelled to seek their reading material amidst the stacks of adult books. Furthermore children should not be compelled to employ library facilities amidst the distraction of their elders. The public library is a universal American institution. Its universality bespeaks its importance. In the course of the year Bethel attracts to itself visitors from the four corners of the earth. Can such a magnet afford to detract from its lustre by the presence of inadequate library facilities?

It seems that the resident of Paris Hill in South Paris open their homes to visitors for a fee every summer, and the money thus raised is used for the library. I visited one of these homes in August 1960 on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of the election of Hannibal Hamlin to the Vice-Presidency of the United States during Abraham Lincoln's administration. It was all done in good taste and for a worthy cause. Why not inaugurate an annual "Library Week" in Bethel to make its residents more conscious of the value of its library as a community asset? Nobody would dream of denying the importance of children and of the things which help them grow spiritually. Based on this premise, how can one deny the importance of a community library to all citizens of the community.

Sincerely yours,
Mark E. Cymrot

Bethel Hospitality

When a group of Bethel ladies heard the following story at last night's "Strawberry Festival" they urged me to write it for your newspaper. I do so with enormous pleasure.

I had the "distinction" to be the only passenger to alight in Bethel from the first passenger train to arrive here this year. This train runs only once a week during the months of July and August, leaving Montreal each Friday at 10 P. M. and arriving here at 5:15 a. m. I had come to participate in the National Training Laboratories session started July 7-20.

As the train departed I became aware that I was all alone. It was drizzling. I was sleepy. Just then a man stuck his sleepy face out of the door of a caboose "parked on a nearby railway siding. A short conversation resulted in an invitation to leave my luggage inside while I set out in search of a cup of coffee. A newspaperboy I met related to me the devastating news that no restaurants open in Bethel before 7 A. M.

A caboose dangling at the end of a long train is somewhat of an "enigma" to my 6-year old son as well as to his father. Upon my return to the caboose I did what comes naturally under such circumstances: I went inside. Three men were sleeping on bunk-beds. I sat down on a chair, uninvited. The oil-burner radiated welcome warmth—I have very little recollection of the following hour.

Eventually the men awoke, got up and did not at all appear to be surprised to see me inside. Their names turned out to be Francis, Marcel and Marcel. We washed and shaved; the bunk beds were folded flat against the wall in order to make room for a folding table. Marcel (1) set the table, made coffee and I was invited to join them at breakfast. Just like that. I felt as if I were a member of the crew.

I came to this country twelve years ago after I escaped from Czechoslovakia. My accent gives away my European origin and, of course, I make no attempt to hide it. My friends were genuinely interested in my experiences and, to my amazement. Francis used words like "Sudetenland" and displayed rather intimate knowledge of Europe prior to, during and after World War II. It turned out he studied history quite extensively. He had read William Shirer's "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich," Churchill's "The Gathering Storm," "Their Finest Hour," "The Seige of Stalingrad," a book about the concentration camp, Auschwitz, and others.

As I listened to Francis I compared him with a bottle of champagne: Pull the cork and watch the wine bubble.

After breakfast my friends insisted on driving me the four blocks to Hanscom Hall.

I shall always cherish this example of New England hospitality, because in Milwaukee where I live now "Gemuetlichkeit" (loosely translated: friendly hospitality) is a household word, but I learned its true meaning here.

The sales-organization I belong to selects annually the 15 dealers who presented outstanding ideas during the preceding year to membership in the "Turtle-Club". The Club's motto is: Behold the Turtle for he makes progress only when he sticks his neck out." Marcel had stuck his neck out and I had walked in uninvited.

Sincerely,
Gerard Friedenfeld

A lot of people probably made resolutions the first of this year to stop being late for appointments and to make it a habit to be "on time." If you are one of these, the State Police suggest that you be "on time" by getting an earlier start—not by making up for lost time en the way. They remind us that our promptness should depend upon well-planned timing and careful driving—not on a last-minute reckless dash through traffic. They point out, also, that to be really late....all we need is an accident!

Difficulties mastered are opportunities won. — Winston Churchill.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read I John 3:1-11

There is . . . one God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all. (Ephesians 4:4,6.)

When I was a small child, I liked to sit on my father's knee. A cousin about my age came to visit us, and my father took her up on one knee with me on the other. I felt that my special right had been invaded and lost no time in voicing my childish objection. Patiently, my father explained there was plenty of room for us both and that I should be kind to our little visitor.

The Fatherhood of God is big enough for all mankind. It is a rich blessing open to all. None of us has exclusive right to it. Moreover, we cannot claim for ourselves the Fatherhood of God and deny the brotherhood of man.

Our Father's concern for each of us is not lessened by the fact that He is deeply concerned for all His children. The gospel is for all mankind. He loves us and, through His Son Jesus Christ, has commanded that we love one another.

PRAYER: Dear God and Father of us all, we are grateful to Thee for Thy great love and mercy. We thank Thee that because of Thy fatherly concern for us, we may attain salvation. Give us a brotherly concern for the salvation of persons everywhere. We pray in our Redeemer's name. Amen.

God's concern as our Father is that we look upon our fellowmen as brothers.

National 4-H Service Committee Photo

Within the next decade about 30 million women are expected to be holding down jobs, says the U. S. Department of Labor. Women now make up about one-third of the total labor force of 75 million. Modern invention and technological advances will add new jobs to the wide span already being filled by women. Many positions are and will be in the home economics field. Employers indicate that more professionally educated women are needed, and those trained in specific skills as well.

Educators Urge Early Career Choice

Today educators urge students to complete high school, and make an early choice of career so that later training and education can be planned accordingly. One group of young women who have a head start, reports the National 4-H Service Committee, are 4-H members.

1.3 Million Girls

At some time during club membership, nearly every one of the 1.3 million girls now enrolled in 4-H receives some training in her dual role of future homemaker and career woman.

Sewing, meal planning, nutrition, home management, interior decoration, fashion and consumer education are among the projects in which 4-H Club members participate.

They start in 4-H as young as 9 years of age, and many remain for as long as 10 years. Volunteer adult and junior 4-H leaders supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service head the local clubs.

Helping to encourage these future home economists, scientists, writers, mothers, teachers and business women are two corporations that annually contribute funds, educational literature and technical assistance to the national 4-H clothing and the foods-nutrition programs.

Scholarships Help

They are Coats & Clark Inc., which this year will help 12 girls with their college education by way of $500 national clothing scholarships.

General Foods Corporation will give six $500 scholarships to top-ranking club members in the 4-H foods-nutrition program.

Chicago Delegates

Both firms will bring to Chicago as delegates to the week-long National 4-H Club Congress state award winners from all 50 states and Puerto Rico—102 in all. Here they will be honored by their hosts at elegant parties and banquets.

During the week-long congress these talented teens will hear prominent educators and noted speakers. Along with 1300 fellow 4-H'ers they will participate in several challenging and inspiring events. For most, it will be the first trip to a big city.

Coats & Clark and General Foods are but two of hundreds of private enterprises helping the youth of this country achieve future goals.

And she shall have phones wherever she goes

in a telephone planned home

In most modern homes you visit these days, telephone convenience has been pre-planned and additional extension outlets have been installed during construction or remodeling with all the wiring concealed. Then, as your phone needs change, you merely plug an extension in where it's needed.

It's so easy and convenient.

AMERICAN MOTHERS COMMITTEE SEEKS A "MRS. THRIFT-WISE"

How do you rate yourself as a homemaker? Does one of your ideas save time, effort and money? Here's your opportunity to reveal your pet secret in household management and share it with other women.

The American Mothers Committee—which has chosen Mrs. John Engdahl of Omaha, Nebraska as American Mother of the Year—is launching a nation-wide search to find an outstanding homemaker who will be named "Mrs. Thrift-Wise." To qualify as a candidate in the Committee's project, all you need do is submit your best idea for getting more mileage out of the family budget.

In order to collect the widest range of money-saving ideas, valuable awards are being offered for the ten most helpful and original suggestions. The Committee's goal is to compile a homemakers' book featuring the best ideas submitted.

The award to the title-holder will be 500,000 Plaid Stamps, or 416 books and could mean both a refrigerator-freezer and a mink stole—or the equivalent of any others items in the stamp catalog which "Mrs. Thrift-Wise" prefers. Awards of 250,000 and 100,000 Plaid Stamps will go to second and third place entrants, respectively. Seven other homemakers will get awards of 12,000 Plaid Stamps each.

Dorothy Lewis, AMC president, believes that thrift-consciousness plays an important role in the home.

"Good management is an essential to home life," Mrs. Lewis contends. "We know that American women are the best managers in the world and we want to dramatize this fact with the naming of a 'Mrs. Thrift-Wise' and by paying tribute to nine other superb home executives."

A homemaker's entry may be a specific solution or a hint involving the savings element in any area of homemaking: family budgeting, shopping, household cleaning or laundry hints, clothes care or sewing tips, food preparation and marketing.

The Citizen is participating in a search for the ten outstanding homemakers. No entry blank is necessary. You may submit as many suggestions as you choose, provided they are postmarked before October 31, 1963. To be eligible, each entry bearing your name and address must be written on a separate sheet, must identify the type of hint and must mention The Citizen. A panel of distinguished women will judge all suggestions on behalf of the Mothers' group. Entries should be sent to The Citizen, and will be forwarded to the American Mothers Committee for judging.

HEAVY TRAFFIC

totality," Andersen said, "and based on the number of people residing in the belt of totality, coupled with those coming from out of state and from other parts of Maine, there could be half a million people moving around in that area."

Andersen noted that 98 percent of the sun's light would be cut off from Kittery to Fort Kent outside the 50-mile-wide path of totality, pointing out that all of Maine would experience a fascinating phenomenon.

Because of this, he felt that traffic would be heavy throughout the state as natives and visitors scramble for viewing vantage points.

The highway safety chairman felt the eclipse occurred at a particularly bad time, falling on a Saturday in July when traffic would be normally heavy and concluding when the sun becomes low in the sky, in the eyes of motorists.

The Committee listed the Maine highways they felt would be most heavily traveled during the eclipse weekend. They included: Rte. 1 from Kittery through Belfast to Stockton Springs; Stockton Springs through Bucksport and Ellsworth to Bar Harbor; and Stockton Spings through Winterport to Bangor; Alt. 1 from Bangor to Ellsworth and on to Bar Harbor; Rte. 201 from Brunswick through Augusta to Winslow, Skowhegan and Bingham.

Maine Turnpike and Highway 95 from Kittery to Fairfield; Rte. 3 from Augusta to Belfast; Rte. 2 from Farmington to Skowhegan through Newport to Bangor; Rte. 11 and 100 from Winslow through Newport to Bangor; Rte. 4 from Auburn to Rangeley and Rte. 16 to Stratton.

The Highway Safety Committee issued the following suggestions to motorists driving to see the spectacle:

1. STOP YOUR CAR WHEN THE ECLIPSE OF THE SUN BEGINS. You don't drive your car and watch television. And you can't observe an eclipse and drive safely, too.

2. DON'T PARK ON PAVED PORTIONS OF THE HIGHWAY. You may be hit from behind or block the passage of emergency vehicles.

3. STAY WHERE YOU ARE FOR AN HOUR AFTER THE ECLIPSE. Traffic will be unusually heavy beginning at 6:00 p. m. Help thin it out by staying put.

4. MAKE PLANS TO STAY OVERNIGHT IN THE AREA WHERE YOU VIEW THE ECLIPSE. Travel as little as possible on July 20.

5. CLEAN YOUR WINDSHIELD. The sun will be lower after the eclipse—viability poor.

6. STAY ALERT AND STAY ALIVE. Drive with care and courtesy.

ous infra-red rays are nevertheless emitted. These rays, when focused on the delicate retina of the eye, can cause harmful burns much the same as a magnifying glass can focus the sun's rays on a piece of paper and burn it. Because the retina is not sensitive to pain, the victime never realizes he has been harmed until too late. Such retinal burns are incurable and the victim has a blank spot in his field of vision where the scar remains on the retina.

"An eclipse is a curious phenomenon and many people, especially the youngsters will be anxious to watch it. There are several means of observing the eclipse safely and these can be incorporated easily into recreational, camp and playground activities."

The National Society then offers two simple projection devises as "safe methods of observing the eclipse." Television also is suggested as a safe means where the eclipse is being telecast.

DED's Technical Advisory Committee herewith offers four sample projection devices for observing the eclipse, all of which have the saving feature that the viewing is by looking away from the sun, rather than towards it.

1. The pinhole principle. The objective card should be about two feet away from the plane of the pinhole. The diameter of the image will be about 1/100th of the distance from the hole to the card on which it is projected, or about one-quarter inch at two feet. The size of the image can be increased by a longer distance between the pinhole and image, but this causes the image to be less distinct and fade away so that it cannot be seen in ordinary outdoor light on a sunny day. Increasing the size of the pinhole also causes loss of sharpness in the image. Experimentation is in order.

2. The "shoebox" device. Here the beam of sunlight from the pinhole is projected against the inside end of a darkened box, with an observation peekhole about four inches from the pinhole.

3. The "mailing tube" device. Close the tube at both ends, taking care to have the inside surface of one closure white and to have a pinhole in the other end. A peekhole in the form of a slot may be cut in the side about one-third of the distance from the pinhole end.

4. The window-shade pinhole. This is quite satisfactory for group viewing and also has the advantage that the eye becomes accustomed to the darkness of the room and at the time of totality will be fully sensitive to the pale light of the corona. Advance planning is necessary to make sure that the sun will shine through the hole in the window shade at the time of the eclipse. The white image board, or card, should be mounted perpendicular to the line of the pinhole sunbeam.

The warning bulletins of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness go far beyond the "extreme caution" warnings of the DED's informational folders on the coming eclipse of July 20, which were based on a variety of scientific opinion currently available.

These are presented without comment in the interests of public health and safety along with four projection devices suggested by DED's Technical Advisory Committee.

Remember that all view finders, whether reflex or direct, which are common in modern cameras, are actually miniature telescopes. If a persons looks at the sun through a camera view finder without an adequate filter, he could blind himself in a second, or at least do permanent damage to his eyesight!

The Department of Economic Development repeat their warnings of all previous bulletins that, considering the importance of the eye to human beings, NO RISK AT ALL IS WORTH TAKING!

V. A. NEWS LETTER

Any deceased veteran of wartime or peacetime service, whose last period of service terminated honorably, is eligible for burial in any national cemetery in which grave space is available, Dr. Joseph S. Weltman, Director of the Veterans Administration Center, Togus, said today.

The spouse, widow or widower of an eligible veteran may be buried in the same grave or in an adjoining grave if space is available.

A minor child of the veteran may also be buried in a national cemetery in the same grave in which either parent has been interred.

Should the spouse or child die before the veteran, the veteran must sign a paper stating his intention to be buried in the national cemetery before the spouse or child can be buried there.

At the time of the death of a veteran, spouse or child eligible for burial in a national cemetery, the mortician or person responsible for funeral arrangements should request interment directly from the superintendent of the national cemetery.

If all of you out there hadn't contributed so faithfully to the American Cancer Society over the years, perhaps my cancer wouldn't have been detected, wouldn't have been cured.

This year you'll have the chance to save 260,000 others—half of all those who develop cancer in a year and who could be saved with education and early diagnosis.

Whatever you do, fight cancer with a checkup and a check. To cure more—give more! Send your donation to CANCER, c/o your local post office.

The 7 Danger Signals of Cancer

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. A sore that does not heal.
4. Change in bowel or bladder habits.
5. Hoarseness or cough.
6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
7. Change in a wart or mole.

If your danger signal lasts longer than 2 weeks, go to your doctor at once. Only he can tell if it is cancer.
